Peace and Security

The AU continues to play a pivotal role in mediating conflicts across the continent. In South Sudan, AU mediators are working to prevent a relapse into civil war following political tensions. In the Democratic Republic of Congo, the AU is considering deploying troops to stabilize regions affected by rebel activities. Furthermore, the AU's involvement in the newly authorized AUSSOM mission in Somalia highlights its commitment to combating terrorism and promoting peace. ReutersReutersThe Guardian

Sustainable Cocoa and Economic Development

Sustainable cocoa production has become a focal point for the AU, recognizing its economic and environmental significance. Ghana's COCOBOD is distributing hybrid cocoa seedlings to farmers, aiming to enhance yields and sustainability. Nigeria is also strengthening sustainable cocoa practices to meet EU green standards. These efforts are crucial as climate change poses challenges to cocoa production, with increased temperatures affecting crop viability in West Africa. The AU's support for these initiatives aligns with broader goals of economic development and environmental sustainability. USDA Foreign Agricultural Service LinkedIn

International Partnerships

The AU-EU partnership, now in its 25th year, has been reinvigorated with a focus on aligning priorities with the AU's Agenda 2063. The third ministerial meeting emphasized cooperation in peace, security, and economic development. Additionally, the AU's engagement with the World Cocoa Foundation and participation in global forums underscore its commitment to international collaboration for sustainable development.
